RABBI'S COLUMN

By Rabbi Jerry Blum

Change

The month of June begins with a most interesting Torah portion that speaks directly to the emotions many of us have felt this past 14 months or so, and even more so, this past month.

In parashat “Sh’lach lecha,” God is preparing the Israelite nation to enter the land of the covenant. Moshe is instructed to send scouts to check out the land of Canaan, even though God had previously told them that the land is fertile and can support the People of Israel. He is told to take one representative from each tribe and send them into the land to find out if the inhabitants were strong fighters or people of peace. Twelve were selected and then sent into Canaan under deep cover (ok, I added that for effect). They went from place-to-place beholding the beauty of the land, and even brought back souvenirs, yet the overall message to Moshe was quite startling. Ten of the twelve scouts reported back that though the land itself flowed with milk and honey, it was inhabited by giants, and it would be impossible for the Israelites to defeat such a foe. Caleb stood alone in saying, no, that is not true. The land is indeed beautiful, and it will be an easy transition into Canaan. Of course, the people fell behind the majority and wailed and did not want to travel any farther. I will not go into what happens next, because I’d rather talk a little about the theme and lesson of this moment in our tradition’s history.

The Israelite nation had come from slavery into the desert (kicking and kvetching all the way), becoming a people under the Law, learning about how we are a nation of priests and how being our purest selves leads us to a life in relationship with our God and THEN, we have to move into this new land and keep all the laws, etc., etc., etc. when all they wanted to do is sit and relax, go back to the relative safe life of being a slave (who thought that one up?) and not change a thing.

But dear friends, we know that often, change does not give us the choice to “opt out.” As we have seen in the past year plus and I personally in the last three weeks, if we are to survive in this world, change we must, even if we go begrudgingly.

In my prior life I used to say, “change is good, even when it’s not” because if we sit in the relative safety of our old, yet personally comfortable ways, we miss so much.

In this month, we will begin the process of opening the doors to our synagogue and meeting once again face to face. At the very least we will have our lay-led summer worship done in person (hopefully with some sort of online connectivity), and we look forward to our High Holy Days services to be done with our congregation, hopefully within the confines of our sanctuary and many new innovations that will make everyone feel welcome and open to praying as a community. We will learn new ways to worship and perhaps a new song or two (I got a million of em – quite literally) and we will try new ways to make sure that we all have access to services. Of course, some of this may seem unfamiliar and perhaps difficult to comprehend all at once, but change is upon us, and like the young Nation of Israel needed to do, cope we will, all together as a holy community.

May these changes bring us personal insights and personal gratification, and may we as a Temple family grow together, now and in the future.

Rabbi Jerry

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Terry Birnbaum-Horton

Thank you all who have participated in the Journal to acknowledge and wish well our special honorees while supporting Temple Isaiah. Thank you to those who were able to join us for a luncheon to recognize and celebrate with our Honorees what they have accomplished and what they mean to us.

We Honor, Cathy Reibstein, our longtime administrator director who knows us and how we work, better than we do ourselves most times. As we all should know, Cathy keeps the inner machine of Temple Isaiah up and running on a daily basis. She watches over us at all times; helping, advising and keeping us on track so that we seem to move smoothly through the many cycles of Temple Isaiah. She has been our constant for nearly 20+ years. Though we are not parting completely, we Thank Cathy today as she moves to another chapter in her life, one with more fun and family and less stress and worries.

We Honor, Cantor Leslie Friedlander, our Cantorial leader and our Spiritual leader. Cantor Friedlander has been more than just our Cantor, she has been our educator and guide through many years of our Jewish lives. Whether leading services, chanting Torah or leading our choir, Cantor Friedlander is in her element. Her ability to keep us focused and keep our services running smoothly a true gift and she does it all with ease and grace, while keeping us all on key. She never misses a beat! We, have been lucky to have Cantor Friedlander and we honor and thank her for all she has brought to us. We wish her more successes in her work and much happiness always.

Sincerely,

Terry Birnbaum-Horton

Are you a hidden “gem”?

Temple Isaiah has many “gems”. Our members have always been talented and special. Members shine at different times and so it was this past month when Meryl Menashe, a Holocaust Studies scholar, gave a group of 7 members and 2 guests a tour of the Children’s Garden at the Holocaust Memorial and Tolerance Center in Glen Cove. Meryl donated the tour and her time at our annual Auction this past winter.

It was a spectacular day which aided in the beauty of the garden and meaningful quotes along the path. Meryl’s deep knowledge of both the project and the Holocaust brought the true spirit and meaning of the Garden to us.

We have had other ‘gems’ in our congregation donate their time, experience, education and talents from lectures to acting.

Thank you to Richard & Alice Weiner, for bringing the cast of The Lantern Theatre to us recently, for an afternoon show, The Cemetery Club. This was done from the heart and gratis. The cost to our attendees was FUN.

Some ‘gems’ work quietly and not so quietly to help keep things humming along from Ritual, Fundraising, Programs & Engagements, Finances, and Membership work, to name a few. We must thank them all. They are Board Members and Committee Chairs; Scott, Lloyd, Shelley, Ruth, June, Meryl, Howard, Bill, Terry J, Denise, Steve F, Steve W, Kathie, Rona, Rachel, Belle, Sheila, Marty, Linda.

Thank you; to those who ran discussions & programs; Claude, Howard I, Elliott, Alisa, Gail, Richard W, Helman, Judy, Paula, Kit, Shelley, Eric, Richard S. Let’s not forget the hard labor of our annual Sukkah building & break-down, adding Jonathan, Sherry & Richard R. to others that have already been mentioned.

Forgive me if I left your name out... let me know! You deserve to be heard!!! And if you feel left out, come volunteer. We hope to have pot-luck dinners, our bazaar and more in the building next fall and will need help.

I would like to take this time to ask for all our hidden ‘gems’ to reach out to me. What’s your talent? What can you add or help with to keep TI shining?

Memoir of a Jewish Iranian Daughter Caught Between the Chador and America

Monday
JUNE 14, 2021
7:30 PM via zoom

"Amini confronts her problematic family history and its consequences in a new memoir titled 'Concealed: Memoir of a Jewish-Iranian Daughter Caught Between the Chador and America.' The book is the poignant tale of a mid-20th century modern, Western child of immigrant parents who can't escape the trauma of their Middle Eastern past... The intergenerational transmission of the social and psychological impact of this dual identity is the crux of Amini's memoir."

—The Times of Israel

"Amini's debut memoir chronicles her parents' life in Iran, their journey to America, and her own coming of age... Here, that voice wields a quiet power, examining her world with unflinching curiosity and care... A moving, engaging investigation of culture and family."

—Kirkus Reviews

Dear Friends,

We are in the midst of constant changes yet it seems that these changes have accelerated in the past year. Some of us are not comfortable with change even though we know that nothing stands still. We also know that we as a people are strong, persist, and grow; and change is a common denominator of all.

As we enter our new fiscal and membership year think about our strengths, think about how we can grow through our changes. We now have a new team working as Director and Administrator, as Cathy Reibstein, our senior administrator happily takes a back seat to our new director, Jacquelyn Golub.

Sadly, we will miss Cantor Friedlander, her voice and her dedication to our congregation. Our strength, talents and creativity will help us navigate this change.

We look forward to a year where we slowly come back to our building to observe Shabbat, holidays and other celebrations, where we can gather for our many programs and engagements. We hope to all come together for our annual Bazaar, where through camaraderie, we manage to do the hard work, set up, selling and break down of a massive number of hidden treasures while Temple Isaiah also gains!

We will again gather for prayer, learning, and social moments this coming year.

So, as we go into the new Temple Isaiah year, let's use these changes to make TI stronger.

President Terry Birnbaum-Horton

MEMBERSHIP DUES FAQ

Q. How is the Sustaining Member Dues derived?

- A. Each spring the Board of Trustees prepares a budget for the coming fiscal year (June 1st to May 31st) and decides what portion of our budgeted cost should be met from dues with the balance coming from fundraising. The Board then sets the Sustaining Member Dues level. Both the Budget and the Sustaining Member Dues are voted on at the Annual Congregational Meeting in May.

Each year, members who have the means contribute more than Sustaining Member Dues through donations, fundraising and by pledging at the Mitzvah, Isaiah's Circle, or Torah levels. In this way they recognize their commitment to Judaism and Temple Isaiah. Through this structure, we seek to minimize fundraising activities and maximize the low and no-cost Temple activities that we value.

Q. What does “self-evaluation” and “gift from the heart” mean?

- A. Self evaluation refers to the process by which a member determines how much they are financially capable of paying. In case they cannot pay full Sustaining Dues, we ask that they pay as close to the full amount as possible to reduce added financial burden on others. The self-evaluation process similarly leads some members to pay amounts above both the Sustaining Member Dues. This has been true during the entire existence of Temple Isaiah.

Our parent organization, the Union for Reform Judaism (URJ), references the Torah portion T'rumah in which Moses receives detailed instructions from God about how to build and equip the Tabernacle, and that it should be constructed by the Israelites with “gifts from the heart.” Hence, following self-evaluation, we both suggest amounts for dues, as well as refer to any other amount as a gift from the heart.

Q. What if I/We join in the middle of the fiscal year?

- A. We trust your integrity to pledge as much as you can to contribute to the maintenance of Temple Isaiah. The more that we raise directly through your pledges and direct contributions, the less fundraising we need to do. Our budget is “no frills” – your money goes to essentials.

Q. What if my/our financial circumstances change?

- A. We value your voluntary desire to affiliate with a synagogue. Our philosophy recognizes everyone's financial cycles. You pledge what you can afford. In good times we hope that you will pledge generously. In difficult times we welcome your commitment to affiliate as a Jewish act.

Q. What if I/we only want to come to the High Holidays or to say Yizkor on Yom Kippur?

- A. We need the support of our members. Our synagogue functions 365 days a year and incurs expenses throughout the year. Even those who only occasionally use the Temple should understand its needs and help provide for them, just as good citizens of Great Neck accept the obligation to contribute to our community even though we may not take advantage of all its programs. As members of Temple Isaiah, we ensure the future of this congregation through adequate financial support, just as those before us preserved this congregation for us.

Q. What is the Building Maintenance Fund?

- A. Every member of Temple Isaiah is asked to make a voluntary payment to the Building Maintenance Fund, with a minimum suggested pledge of $1,800 payable over 5 years. The purpose of the Building Maintenance Fund is for maintenance and improvement of our home at 1 Chelsea Place. Members are asked to submit a Building Fund pledge form with their membership application, which form details the amount of the building maintenance fund pledge and the proposed payment schedule. For historical perspective, 92 member families contributed on average about $13,000 each to build Temple Isaiah. Members who previously contributed $1,800 or more to a building fund of another URJ Synagogue are exempt.

Honor your loved one in our Memorial Book

As the High Holy Days approach, we continue our tradition of publishing a Memorial Book to honor our departed loved ones that have made an imprint in our heart and been a part of our lives. As in past years, the booklet will contain the names of our loved ones and appropriate memorial prayer, which will be made available to you for Yom Kippur.

In order to be certain that the names of your loved ones are included in the Memorial Book, please complete and return the form no later than Wednesday, August 4, 2021. Please note that all information must be submitted in written form.

*For those that placed remembrances in last year's booklet, a copy of your entry will be sent for your review. If needed, please make the appropriate changes and send back to Temple Isaiah.

*For those that have not previously placed a list of remembrances in our booklet but would like to this year, please list below the names that you would like listed in the book. If they have departed during this past year, please indicate that below.

It is an old Jewish Tradition and Mitzvah to honor our loved ones that have departed, by making a contribution in observance of Yizkor. We thank you in advance for your generosity.
